

WHO DUVET THINK THEY ARE?: Pure Latex Bliss sales manager Chris Francis and international business development manager Amanda Cooke at the newly-opened showroom at Pannal Business Park

Happy doze are here again

BEDS have made a comeback at the former Dunlopillo factory – a decade after production ceased at the Harrogate site. Pure Latex Bliss, an American-owned company, has taken over a showroom at Pannal Business Park, displaying its new range of luxury mattresses and pillows.

Sales manager Chris Francis said: “Trade customers from all over the country will now be able to come to the business park and view our products. The location is ideal.

“Not only is it a stone’s throw from our production facility at the business park, but, more importantly, it is next to a railway station, close to major motorway links and airport and has ample parking.”

Nick Prescott, spokesman for the business park’s letting agent, Gent Visick, said: “It’s fantastic to have beds displayed here once again.”
